Authorship rights of the lecturers The presentations are made possible through an agreement between Sofia University and Stiftelsen Pedagogisk Utveckling. The agreement states: "The Foundation takes the obligation to preserve the authorship rights of the two lecturers in connection with the seminars, not to allow the recording in video, audio and other materials without a respektive contract, to inform the participants in the seminars not to publish in any form the information at their disposal during the training without a contract with the lecturers." This, however, does not mean that notes cannot be taken or that the presented information cannot be brought to scientific or journalistic discussion.

General information Much of the advertisement for suggestopedia has so far been misleading, which has been pointed at and regretted by Dr Lozanov during his seminars, as he has not been able to influence or correct this. According to Dr Lozanov, learning takes place 2 – 3 times faster for the average adult student as compared to the results achieved with conventional methods, if the teacher has a very good knowledge in the target language and is very skilful in the use of the suggestopedic method and is using very well elaborated suggestopedic teaching materials.

For a deeper understanding of suggestology and suggestopedia and for certification as a teacher on different levels a thorough training is necessary. To become a suggestopedic teacher is to get a new profession, according to the originators of the method. Certification as a suggestopedic teacher on the first level requires a) participation in the first Italian course as a student during 20 days, b) lectures on suggestology and suggestopedia, psychotherapy, psychiatry, music, art and other subjects that relate to suggestopedia. A special type of voice training is also necessary. The lectures will be given parallell to the Italian course and for 10 days more, c) teaching a course of your own under continuous guidance during one month. Successful completion of a, b and c will provide the teacher with certification on the first level.
