1999 Programme for intensive training in Suggestopedy/Desuggestopedy

Communication on the level of unused capacities of brain/mind

According to the theory of Suggestology, both the process of desuggestion and the process of suggestion occur in a suggestopedic environment. In the process of desuggestion, a spontaneous liberation from the old fixed norms takes place, while the process of suggestion influences the increasing use of the reserve capabilities (unused capacities) of the brain and psyche. In the newest development of Suggestopedy, the approach puts more emphasis on the processes of desuggestion. This new direction is reflected in the new name for the method – „The Desuggestopedy: Reserve capacities communicative method“ and is already included in our courses for training teachers and other specialists.

It is, therefore, a pleasure to inform you of Dr.G.Lozanov's teacher-training courses and seminars for 1999 (see the programme!).

A certificate is issued only after the completion of the Second Level (Stage C) of training.

Teachers, certified and personally trained by us, have the right to receive consultations free of charge about the difficulties which they may run into their work.
